Why do children need an adventure playground? "From the moment they wake up to the moment they go to sleep," Marsha says, "kids never get a chance to choose what they're going to do without an adult telling them: 'That isn't safe,' or 'You're wasting your time!'"

- 25 Marsha adds, "We've forgotten how valuable it is to be able to walk around freely and create new things." One parent talks about watching his seven-year-old daughter, Shelly, make an airplane from cardboard and tape. "She made it by herself and played with it for hours," he says.

30 Playing with junk is natural for children; it is the parents who need to learn not to interfere. "It's hard," Marsha says. "But, if we want our kids to be curious, tough and brave, they need opportunities to experience different things."
