PART I

A. A Summer's Reading

1. iv
2. iii
3. She calls him a bum and stops giving him money.
4. Mr. Cattanzara is worried that George might make the same mistakes as he himself had done- mistakes that led him to live in the poor neighbourhood and work at a low paying job. This is why he tells George "don't do what I did".... Mr. Cattanzara made mistakes that he is still paying for and thinking that George might end up living the same life Mr. Cattanzara has, makes him sad.
5. Thinking skill I chose: Inferring
I suppose George felt this way because he wasn't sure if Mr. Cattanzara would ask him about the books he told him he planned to read. George knows that a conversation about this issue might reveal his lie, and this would place him in an uncomfortable position.

PART II

B. The Treasure of Lemon Brown

6. iv
7. ii
8. ii
9. Greg decided not to tell his father about Lemon Brown.
10. Thinking skill I chose: Explaining Cause and Effect
Greg says this because in the story Lemon Brown's treasure was not something that is was worth a lot of money. This treasure was the love and respect of his son. The fact that the newspaper clippings and the harmonica were the only things Jesse took with him to the war, prove how important his father was to him. Greg understands that this significant and meaningful father-son relationship is Lemon Brown's real treasure and he should take care of it.

Part III

11. Thank You Mám

This quote expresses a similar message to the message of the story "Thank You Mám". In the story we learn that Mrs. Jones did things in her past that she regrets. She sees a little bit of herself in Roger because she also made mistakes in the past and she knows how difficult it is to change yourself. Mrs. Jones changed, she is a decent hard working woman and she wants Roger to have hope and believe he can change too.

12. The Road Not Taken

This quote expresses a similar idea to the idea of the poem The Road Not Taken.

The Road Not Taken is a poem about decisions people make throughout their lives and the doubts they have after making their decisions. The speaker in the poem stands in front of a road which diverges into two paths and he has to make up his mind which road to choose. Finally, he chooses the road that fewer people have used but he hopes to return one day and take the other road. He knows that once he chooses one way, it will lead to another and another. The speaker knows that choosing the road less traveled by has had a great influence on his life. Just like the quote says, it doesn't really matter what skills he had while making his decisions, but the speaker knows that choosing the road less travelled by has made all the difference.
